

There's no road to happiness. It's more of a winding path through hills and valleys. In the end, it's the journey that matters.