The secret to success isn't just doing what you love.

It's finding something you are interested in, and then working to be good at it.